Parameter Reconstruction for the Transport Equation

Ru-Yu Lai

School of Mathematics, University of Minnesota, USA

Email: rylai@umn.edu

The inverse problem for the transport equation finds applications in many fields such as optical imaging and semi-conductor designing. In particular, it seeks to reconstruct certain physical properties of a medium from the data measured on the boundary. In this talk we will discuss the determination of the parameter in the inverse transport problem and address the problem in the diffusion scaling.